- Collaborated with a team of baristas to make and serve handcrafted coffees of all sorts.
- Memorized and implemented many recipes.
- Maintained a clean and orderly working environment.
- Connected with every customer in an effort to make their experience the best it could be.

Contract Developer – Interactive Life Forms, LLC

June 2022 — August 2022

- Collaborated with a backend developer and a web designer to build a high-quality, partner-showcasing website for the company. This website was a necessary update to their previous partner-showcasing site which was outdated, and only able to display a certain amount of tiles, where the new website can toggle through an unlimited amount and catergorize them based on the needs of the user.

Recent Projects:

Web Development Portfolio Website – A front-end website showcasing my work as a developer. The page has a fun, creative feel to it with a sleek layout. The user is able to download my resume with the push of a button and navigate the page via jumping links and a fun custom scrollbar.

Movie Overview – This is a recreation of my project with ILF, created to be put in my online portfolio. The site features a media slider which, on page load, displays the top 20 movies of the year pulled from TMDB's API. It also includes a search option so the user can search whatever movie they want out of 650,000, and the results are displayed in the slider. The main programming feature with this website was working with client side API's. This site calls from multiple API's to display the necessary information.

Ayesha Highlights – A personal project which aims to advertise Ayesha Highlights using lots of images and an eye-catching layout to entice the user. The websites challenge was to organize the given information into a complex layout that is fun to scroll through.
